THE CLERK: All rise for the Court.

(The Court enters the courtroom at 9:37 a.m.)

THE CLERK: For a conference in U.S. versus Tsarnaev.
Be seated.

THE COURT: Good morning.

COUNSEL IN UNISON: Good morning, your Honor.

THE COURT: First let's deal with old business. I just want to -- because some of the preparations for the submission of the case to the jury were sort of not officially recorded on the record, I just want to note that the parties had advance copies of the jury instructions. I think they were provided on the Sunday. And they varied a little bit after that but not substantially. Similarly, the verdict slip the parties had reviewed on Monday, and the redactions to the indictment also were reviewed by the parties -- I'm not sure any of that was formally on the record -- all before the submission.

I did want to note also that for what it's worth the practices with respect to the attendance of the alternates, they were in a -- after they were separated, they were brought to another jury room elsewhere in the building where they were together, but there was a representative of the jury clerk present with them to be sure that there was no discussion of the case throughout. They got lunch separately. They didn't

1 mingle with the deliberating jury to get their lunch or 2 anything like that. And they were also transported separately
3 in the vans. There were actually two runs instead of the 4 common runs that were being done before. So all of that was 5 being done to make sure there was no contact between 6 deliberating jurors and the alternates. And as far as I know, 7 that was successful.

8 So there are still some pending motions. Notably, I 9 think the Rule 29 motion is still formally unruled on, and 00:02 10 perhaps there are others. But why don't we start with that. I 11 don't know if Mr. Bruck or Ms. Clarke or anybody. Ms. Conrad?

12 MS. CONRAD: Your Honor, we just rest on our papers 13 and renew our motion including the request for election of 14 counts with respect to the multiple counts of the indictment.

15 THE COURT: Okay. The motion is denied in all 16 respects. With respect to the 924(c) issue, if I could call it 17 that, it's clear from the cases that the government cited, 18 Garcia-Ortiz and Hansen, that it's a settled issue.

19 And with respect to the issue about Count Seven and 00:03 20 the foreign victim, a couple of things: First, as I indicated 21 briefly, I regard it, having reviewed analogous cases -- none 22 directly on point -- I regard it as an affirmative defense to 23 be raised by the defense, which it was not. To the extent it 24 was raised as a defense by the motion, the government was given 25 the opportunity to meet that by the stipulation that I

1 permitted them to offer after they had closed. And I think 2 that's consistent with case management to permit that, and that 3 negative -- the exemption, even if it were an issue. I think 4 there is some question as to whether we should regard it as an 5 issue, but if it were an issue, I think it was resolved 6 correctly so that the exemption did not apply.

7 As to other points, I think the jury was within the 8 bounds of what was rational to come out as they did on some of 9 the counts, like the robbery and the carjacking, even though 00:04 10 those results were not necessarily compelled by the evidence.
11 So the motion is denied.

12 So I want to get a general idea from you first, I 13 guess, about what you conceive the next phase will look like.
14 Mr. Weinreb had addressed it briefly, but maybe we want to add 15 to that, and then I'll hear from the defense as to what their 16 views are.

17 MR. WEINREB: Your Honor, the bulk of the government's 18 presentation in the penalty phase and our case-in-chief will be 19 victim-impact testimony --

00:04 20 THE COURT: Could you move the mic up?

21 MR. WEINREB: -- and we don't expect that it will last 22 more than a few days -- a few court days. I think to be safe, 23 we would say three, but we really don't expect it to last --

24 THE COURT: How many witnesses?

25 MR. WEINREB: I think approximately 20. There will be

1 some -- most of the aggravators, we will rely primarily, if not 2 entirely, on evidence that was introduced in the guilt phase.
3 With respect to lack of remorse, we'll have some additional 4 evidence. And then we'll have some additional evidence with 5 respect to grave risk of death, the cruel and heinous nature of 6 the injuries.

7 THE COURT: Is that Dr. King?

8 MR. WEINREB: Yes, Dr. King.

9 And the vulnerable-victim aggravator. Again, that 00:05 10 will be, in part, expert testimony from Dr. King.

11 In the rebuttal phase of our -- or the rebuttal part 12 of the penalty phase, we actually could have equal, if not more 13 evidence. A lot of that depends on how much comes in in the 14 defense case.

15 We've been informally notified by the defense that 16 they intend to call up to nine or ten expert witnesses as well
17 as 15 to 20 civilian witnesses. They may say something 18 different now. I haven't checked with them this morning. But 19 if that's the case, then we would envision a robust rebuttal.

00:06 20 THE COURT: But you don't anticipate any 21 terrorism-related witness -- expert witnesses like -- there's a 22 motion that I think is still extant about some terrorism 23 opinions. So you don't plan on that in the first part of 24 your --

25 MR. WEINREB: That's correct. We don't intend to 1 produce any more of that in our case-in-chief, but in rebuttal.

2 THE COURT: Right. But that is what you're referring 3 to might be in a rebuttal --

4 MR. WEINREB: That along with responsive experts.

5 THE COURT: And how about exhibits?

6 (Counsel confer off the record.)

7 MR. WEINREB: We don't expect to introduce much in the 8 way of new evidence. Primarily, it would be photographs from 9 the lives of the victims who -- the decedents -- that would 00:07 10 simply illustrate what their lives were like before they died, 11 some video. And then on -- with respect to lack of remorse, we 12 will have a few more exhibits, but it won't be much.

13 THE COURT: Just as a technical aside, I'm not sure 14 how technically this jibes with the JERS -- I guess I'll have 15 to see if it -- because I would assume that the body of 16 exhibits in the first phase will still be evidence for the 17 second phase, obviously. So I don't know whether we can simply 18 add and -- so you might give some thought, if we can -- let's 19 assume that we could do that, that the JERS presentation can be 00:08 20 withdrawn, added to and then reloaded. I think that's probably 21 what would have to happen -- whether there should be any 22 demarcation of -- or segregation of the second phase from the 23 first phase or not. Maybe that's just done by numbers.

24 MR. WEINREB: I suppose we can discuss it with the 25 defense if they have strong views about it. My reading of the 1 statute is that all the evidence in the guilt phase is 2 available in the penalty phase. And so simply continuing the 3 numbering of exhibits where we left off would make sense, but 4 we're open to discussion about it if there are differing views.

5 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Thank you.

6 Mr. Bruck?

7 MR. BRUCK: Thank you, your Honor. As far as the 8 length of our case, there are a great many unsettled questions, 9 but at this point we -- our best estimate is approximately two 00:09 10 weeks, in the neighborhood of eight days, of witnesses and 11 testimony. I must say that having just heard that the 12 government has additional evidence that they want to present on 13 the constitutionally extremely problematic area of lack of 14 remorse, suggests a whole need for -- since we have no 15 conception of what those witnesses might be or what the nature 16 of that evidence might be, we're going to have to wait for 17 their witness list or else see what they're willing to tell us 18 ahead of time. But that is another bump in the road.

19 I guess we haven't gotten to the pending motions, but 00:10 20 it's already becoming clear from hearing Mr. Weinreb's summary 21 that there are more motions to be filed, and that 22 includes -- it sounds as if victim impact is indeed expanding 23 well beyond not only what is constitutionally permissible, but 24 perhaps more immediately relevant, what has been noticed. The 25 government is limited to aggravation for which they have

1 provided notice.

2 To the extent that the government, for example, is 3 proving victim-impact evidence about non-homicide victims, 4 survivors, there's no notice of that in the notice of intent to 5 seek the death penalty, and that raises a pretty serious issue
6 about the admissibility of such evidence. I'm a little bit 7 limited without knowing exactly what the government intends to 8 do, but I wanted to flag that issue because I know the Court 9 also wants to hear about pending motions. And I'd hate to -- 00:11 10 having just heard the government's summary today, I would hate 11 to leave the Court with the impression that the 12 currently -- current set of motions are all that's pending, 13 because I think we've got new ones coming down the pike.

14 But eight days, is the short answer.

15 THE COURT: Well, give me just the idea of the kinds 16 of witnesses. And I think I have some idea from 17 authorizations, but tell me what you expect as a broad outline, 18 if that --

19 MR. BRUCK: We have -- we do not expect to call nine 00:11 20 expert witnesses. The government has received notice of that 21 many that we're -- the -- we, of course, tend to re-call the 22 computer expert to finish the evidence that we began to present
23 at the guilt phase, Mr. Spencer. We intend to call an expert 24 on Chechnya and Russia dealing with the defendant's background 25 and -- his family background and -- I should say dealing with

1 his cultural and historical origins and relating to some of the 2 issues that have already been raised by the government
3 regarding what was on the computers and so forth. We'll 4 call -- we'll re-call an expert dealing with cell phones, 5 technical testimony.

6 We expect to call an expert that will be responsive to 7 Dr. Levitt dealing with Islam and, to some degree, the boat 8 writings. We have an expert on radicalization that the 9 government has been noticed of. There will be a social 00:12 10 historian, and then there will be a teaching witness; that is 11 to say, someone who has not examined the defendant or any of 12 the medical -- any medical or neurological evidence in the 13 case, but a witness to talk about the neurobiology of 14 adolescence, and simply what we know about brain development 15 and the concept of maturity.

16 And then we have a very problematic situation dealing 17 with the Bureau of Prisons. And we had planned to apprise the 18 Court of this during the discussion of scheduling but I can go 19 into it now.

00:13 20 In October of last year we interviewed a witness who's 21 actually the chief legal counsel at ADX, which is a supermax 22 facility where I think it is generally agreed our client will 23 be sent to serve his sentence if he receives a life sentence, 24 and issued a subpoena on January 5th together with a Touhy
25 letter for the attendance of this witness. This man is a

1 correctional officer and also a lawyer with a comprehensive 2 overview of both the special administrative measures that our 3 client is under and would continue to be under in the Bureau of 4 Prisons unless the attorney general decided otherwise, the 5 physical conditions, the -- all of the safeguards and measures 6 that would prevent our client from posing a future risk to 7 national security or of future -- of violence, period.
8 Obviously, a crucially important issue in a case of this 9 nature.

00:14 10 As I say, the Touhy letter and the subpoena was issued 11 on January 5th, and this week -- I should say last week, three 12 months later, we received a letter from the U.S. Attorney's 13 Office declining to provide that witness, the one we had 14 prepared and subpoenaed, and telling us that substitutes would 15 be arranged.

16 We, yesterday, received the name of three substitute 17 witnesses, none of whom we have ever met, know anything about, 18 two of them with the FBI and one of them with the Bureau of 19 Prisons, which we are informed that these witnesses will be 00:15 20 responsive to the range of issues that we had hoped our single 21 witness would be able to testify to.

22 I'm not yet ready to complain about this because we 23 don't know who these people are. We haven't talked to them.
24 We're advised that we can talk to them, along with the 25 government being present. And we're in a real crunch to get

1 this done, find out whether these are adequate substitutes or 2 whether we have to apply to the Court for relief to get the 3 attendance of the witness who we actually were prepared to 4 call. But this is a critically important area of our case 5 which for the reasons I've just stated could fairly be said to 6 be in disarray, although we've done everything we could do to 7 be ready. That's our last expert on the list.

8 There was an expert that the government has a pending
9 motion to exclude on grounds of inadequate Rule 16 disclosures 00:16 10 who we do not intend to call.

11 THE COURT: Porterfield?

12 MR. BRUCK: Porterfield.

13 THE COURT: Okay. With respect to non-expert
14 witnesses?

15 MR. BRUCK: With respect to non-experts, it's -- I 16 would say at this point our count is around 20 lay witnesses.
17 It could -- well --

18 MS. CLARKE: Plus international.

19 MR. BRUCK: Twenty domestic witnesses and as many as 00:17 20 nine international witnesses. So we're in the neighborhood of 21 30 civilian witnesses.

22 THE COURT: It sounds like there's probably some 23 cumulativeness there, no?

24 MR. BRUCK: I'm sorry?

25 THE COURT: I said, it sounds like there's probably 1 some cumulativeness there.

2 MR. BRUCK: Well, there are --

3 THE COURT: I know you'd have people that -- to be 4 available because --

5 MR. BRUCK: Well, for the international witnesses, we 6 certainly had to prepare for the possibility that -- you know.
7 And that's an issue we need to address with the Court today as 8 well, is the timing of that. And Mr. Fick is prepared to do 9 that.

00:17 10 But we have evidence to present about Tamerlan, we 11 have evidence to present about our own client. There are 12 various periods and aspects of our client's life, his family's 13 background and his former environment, all of which we intend 14 to prove through witnesses. It's a very complex story and I 15 think 20 witnesses -- domestic witnesses is a good bet.

16 THE COURT: Okay. And how about exhibits? The 17 experts, I presume, would have some exhibits.

18 MR. BRUCK: The experts will have some exhibits. We 19 have been working hard to get our exhibit list. As I 00:18 20 mentioned, we do not yet have the government's exhibit list.
21 And since the government, it sounds like, will be preceding 22 about a week ahead of us, we had hoped -- we think it 23 reasonable to propose that we provide our exhibit list one week 24 after we receive the government's, that way we each have the 25 same amount of time with the exhibit list prior to the start of 1 the case.

2 THE COURT: Okay. So overall, if I put those two 3 estimates together, we're looking at about three weeks, give or 4 take?

5 MR. BRUCK: Three weeks of testimony.

6 THE COURT: Testimony.

7 MR. BRUCK: Yes.

8 MR. WEINREB: Your Honor, I think with the government 9 going perhaps three trial days, if the defense, in fact, goes 00:19 10 eight trial days, we will have at least an additional four in 11 rebuttal.

12 THE COURT: I see. Okay.

13 MR. WEINREB: So I would think four weeks at a 14 minimum.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Yeah, I had not factored in 16 rebuttal.

17 Well, let me address some of the -- what I might call 18 leftover motions that were never addressed with respect to 19 experts. There had been a government motion to exclude Janet 00:20 20 Vogelsang, but then there was a subsequent -- on the grounds of 21 inadequate disclosure, and then there was a subsequent 22 disclosure. Is that still a live issue?

23 MR. WEINREB: Your Honor, the motion that we filed 24 previously, I think, has been superseded, but there will be 25 certain areas of her testimony that we still would seek to

1 exclude on 403 grounds; in particular, both her -- the 2 disclosure that we received and many of the underlying -- or I 3 shouldn't say "many," but several of the underlying exhibits or 4 materials on which she relied relate to the Waltham triple 5 homicide. And we have a motion pending already that has not 6 been resolved to exclude all reference to, and evidence of, 7 that separate crime on various grounds and will be -- we want 8 it to be known that that motion we -- applies to Ms. Vogelsang 9 too, and to any other witnesses who may testify.

00:21 10 We've noticed that a few of the lay witnesses who have 11 been noticed to us by the defendant are -- were close friends 12 of one of the victims of that triple homicide, and we have no 13 idea what they might be testifying about other than that event.
14 So I think that the resolution of that will be an important 15 step in determining the fate of some other witnesses and 16 exhibits in this case.

17 There may be one or two other areas where we will seek 18 to exclude certain anticipated testimony by Ms. Vogelsang. And 19 again, largely it relates to other bad acts by Tamerlan 00:22 20 Tsarnaev that don't relate to relative culpability for the 21 offense in this case but simply invite the jury to draw an 22 irrelevant comparison, which is the comparison of -- sort of 23 the character of these two individuals aside from what they did 24 in this case, simply in general in their lives.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Yeah?

1 MR. BRUCK: In connection with that, I think I should 2 apprise the Court, first, that we would like to file something 3 responsive to the Waltham motion the government has filed. We 4 had earlier advised that we did not intend to go into that at 5 the guilt phase, and of course we didn't attempt to. We do 6 intend to raise it, if we're permitted to do so, at the penalty
7 phase; and, in fact, plan to submit a Touhy request for an FBI 8 agent with knowledge of the confession of the decedent who 9 implicated Tamerlan Tsarnaev.

00:23 10 That there is further motions in limine that the 11 government has with respect to other bad acts of Tamerlan 12 Tsarnaev is news to us. We think that probably this is going 13 to have to be -- we would like written notice of what it is 14 and -- so that we can respond to it. Right off the cuff, it is 15 so obvious that the relationship between the older brother and 16 the youngest child in the family is so critical to this story 17 and the question of who Tamerlan Tsarnaev was. His manner of 18 interacting with the world, his violence, his aggressiveness 19 are all parts of the penalty-phase story of the likely 00:24 20 relationship between our client and his oldest brother.

21 There is also testimony the Court has not yet heard 22 concerning the cultural background to this issue, the special 23 dominance of the oldest brother in a Chechen family that is 24 unfamiliar, and we plan to present expert testimony and also 25 lay testimony on that issue.

1 So to some degree this is not something that can be 2 resolved -- or I think can be best resolved as a pretrial -- 3 you know, before the evidence has begun to develop, including 4 our expert and some of our lay testimony that provides the 5 cultural background that one would need to assess relevance and 6 any 403 claim, but it's certainly not something that we can 7 respond to before we know with more precision other than 8 Waltham what it is the government objects to.

9 MR. WEINREB: So, your Honor, the motions that the 00:25 10 government filed that is still pending was a motion to exclude 11 any reference or evidence of the Waltham triple homicide and 12 any other prior bad acts of Tamerlan Tsarnaev. So that 13 actually was filed months ago and briefed by the government 14 months ago. This isn't the first time the defense is hearing 15 about it.

16 We didn't specifically enumerate particular bad acts, 17 but we did, I think, set out our theory of the reason to 18 exclude them, which is both relevance, but largely more the 19 penalty-phase equivalent of 403, that in a case where the 00:25 20 defense is laying a huge amount of emphasis in their mitigation 21 case on both relative culpability for the crimes that were 22 committed and any influence that Tamerlan Tsarnaev may have had 23 on their client, that the risk that the jury will be confused
24 and misled by evidence of prior bad acts by Tamerlan Tsarnaev 25 of which there's no evidence that the defendant had any idea or

1 influenced him in any way but simply invite the jury to 2 speculate is extremely high. So, again, we don't need to 3 further argue it or resolve it now, but that's simply 4 background.

5 THE COURT: Well, I think what we'll --

6 MR. WEINREB: If I may just say one more thing. With 7 respect to Ms. Vogelsang, the other thing I wanted to add is 8 that she was originally noticed as a biopsychosocial expert, 9 and she's now being cast as a social historian. When she was a 00:26 10 biopsychosocial expert, we assumed there were going to be 11 opinions made by her relating to biological and psychological 12 evidence. And in particular, since no psychiatrist or 13 psychologists have been noticed by the defense in light of 14 their withdrawal of their 12.2 notice, it's unclear to us 15 whether Ms. Vogelsang now intends to render opinions of a 16 psychological nature.

17 We have received no notice of any opinion testimony by 18 her whatsoever, and we assume, therefore, there will not be and 19 she will not be standing in for psychologists or psychiatrists 00:27 20 who are not going to testify but she may have consulted with 21 and spoken to and...

22 THE COURT: Can we get a quick answer to that?

23 MR. BRUCK: Yes. Ms. Vogelsang has not met the 24 client. She is not going to provide opinion testimony. She, 25 in effect, is going to organize so much of the social history

1 and the family history as does not come out through lay
2 witnesses --

3 THE COURT: She's going to be the hearsay witness, in 4 other words?

5 MR. BRUCK: -- as an efficient --
6 I'm sorry?

7 THE COURT: She's going to be the hearsay witness?

8 MR. BRUCK: Okay.

9 (Laughter.)

00:28 10 MR. BRUCK: But she is not going to be testifying to 11 render a professional opinion as a social worker.

12 THE COURT: Okay. The other -- what I started to say, 13 we should have a response to the government's motion on the bad 14 acts soon.

15 MR. BRUCK: Okay.

16 THE COURT: And we could talk about precise dates.
17 The defendant had a motion directed at Dr. King but --

18 MR. BRUCK: Yes.

19 THE COURT: Was that only for the guilt phase?

00:28 20 MR. BRUCK: No, that was for the penalty phase. And 21 it's -- the initial motion focused particularly on Dr. King's 22 military experience and background. We were concerned that 23 Dr. King was going to be used as a -- sort of a stand-in for 24 the betrayal of the United States aggravator that the Court 25 struck. He has a -- step back a moment.

1 Dr. King is sort of one of the Boston Marathon bombing 2 heroes. He is a military surgeon with extensive experience in 3 Iraq and Afghanistan. He ran the marathon that day and then 4 went home and then quickly repaired to Mass. General where he 5 operated on the wounded. He took President Obama around the 6 hospital three days later.

7 He is a heroic figure and inspirational figure, and we 8 think that the government, in effect, is wishing to leverage
9 his military background, the connection between the IED wounds
00:29 10 that he saw overseas and the IED wounds that he saw at Mass.
11 General on April 15th for reasons that should not come into 12 this case. Dr. King did not see any of the --

13 THE COURT: We're not arguing it now; I just wanted to 14 know if the motion still pertains. One of the things I would 15 like to do is set up argument on some of these motions.

16 MR. BRUCK: Oh, okay. I apologize.

17 THE COURT: So I just wanted to know if that was 18 limited and therefore no longer applicable, but you've answered 19 that.

00:30 20 MR. BRUCK: Yes. And we think it may need to be 21 expanded a little bit on this question of what is responsive to 22 noticed aggravating factors as opposed to other aggravating 23 factors that we think the government is not entitled to prove 24 because we did not -- they were not included in the notice.

25 MR. WEINREB: Your Honor, it may expedite matters if I

1 give you our list of pending motions that we believe need to be 2 resolved before the penalty phase.

3 There is government's omnibus penalty-phase motion in 4 limine that's still pending. We filed a motion prior to the 5 guilt phase with respect to four individuals, three of whom are 6 experts, who the defense has now let us know will be testifying 7 in the penalty phase instead. They are Michael Reynolds, who 8 he is the expert on Chechnya; Bernard Haykel, who is the 9 Islam/terrorism expert; and Mark Spencer, the computer expert.

00:31 10 We don't challenge any of these people on grounds of their 11 expertise and we assume that -- we have no reason to believe 12 yet at this point that anything they say will be outside of 13 what has been noticed to us, but we still do have some 14 objections to their testimony on 401 and 403 grounds.

15 And I don't know whether it would make sense, because 16 our initial motion was focused on the relevance of a lot of 17 that testimony in the guilt phase, whether we should update it 18 to express our concerns about it with respect to the penalty
19 phase. Again, our concerns are narrowed in the penalty phase 00:32 20 but they haven't been narrowed to nothing, so --

21 THE COURT: What -- are those -- that's one motion, 22 you said, that addressed several experts?

23 MR. WEINREB: Yes.

24 THE COURT: Do you have the number, the docket number?

25 MR. WEINREB: I don't have the docket number because 1 it was filed under seal.

2 MR. BRUCK: The motion was directed entirely to the 3 guilt phase. This was the motion that the Court granted. It 4 limited what we could do in --

5 THE COURT: Oh, I see. Okay. All right.

6 MR. BRUCK: So we feel that --

7 THE COURT: So it has to be remade.

8 MR. WEINREB: It would have to be renewed.

9 MR. BRUCK: This is a new motion.

00:32 10 MR. WEINREB: Right. It would raise a number of the 11 same things.

12 And then we will be filing motions in limine with 13 respect to several other proposed penalty-phase experts, and 14 we'll do that expeditiously. With respect to Dr. Giedd --

15 THE COURT: Dr. --

16 MR. WEINREB: Giedd, G-I-E-D-D.

17 THE COURT: Oh, yes. Okay.

18 MR. WEINREB: -- who would be testifying about 19 adolescent brain development, we'll have the same motion in 00:33 20 limine with respect to him that essentially we have with 21 respect to Ms. Porterfield, which is that in the absence of 22 testimony that he examined the defendant's brain and can say 23 things about the defendant in particular, that simply 24 testifying in general and then asking the government -- asking 25 the jury to speculate that the defendant falls within the

1 category of people who have some kind of immature brain
2 development is inappropriate and should be excluded under 403 3 grounds.

4 There are certain defense exhibits that we have seen, 5 we don't know if the defense actually intends to offer them, 6 that we would be moving to exclude. Just as an example, when 7 the defendant was taken to Beth Israel after being arrested, he 8 had an operation on his face to repair some damage. The 9 operation was documented by the surgeons there so that there
00:34 10 are pictures of him with his face entirely flayed, basically 11 cut open so that the exact tissue could be photographed. The 12 defense has given those to us as potential exhibits. They 13 would obviously, in our view, be as prejudicial as if we had 14 put in autopsy photos of the victims in this case flayed, as 15 they were, as part of the autopsy. We can't imagine what 16 possible relevance that could have, or probative value, that 17 would outweigh the prejudicial nature of it.

18 So until we have an actual exhibit list from the 19 defense, we're not going to be in a position to file any of 00:34 20 these motions in limine.

21 And with respect to setting a schedule for them to be 22 filed, we don't agree with the defense that because we are 23 going first and they are going second, that we should be 24 noticing our witnesses and exhibits one week ahead of theirs.
25 The situation in the penalty phase is essentially reversed from

1 the situation in the guilt phase. We did give them extreme 2 advance notice of a large number of the guilt phase -- our 3 penalty -- essentially, our penalty-phase witnesses and 4 exhibits because they were also pertinent to guilt or innocence 5 and, therefore, came in in the guilt phase and there's 6 extremely little left for us that needs to be done exclusively 7 in the penalty phase, whereas virtually everything that we're 8 going to be seeing from the defense is being offered now in the 9 penalty phase. And we need the same opportunity they had to 00:35 10 look at these exhibits, to prepare motions in limine.

11 With respect to many of their witnesses, we have no 12 idea what any of these people are going to say. We've gotten 13 no Jencks with respect to them. There may not be any Jencks.
14 We -- to the extent that we have been able to figure out who 15 some of them are, for example, the foreign witnesses, or the 16 domestic witnesses, we have no -- we've had no proffer from the 17 defense as to what they're going to be talking about.

18 Simply looking at their 302s, there is large 19 quantities of information that -- here in those 302s that 00:36 20 strikes us as obviously irrelevant, or more prejudicial than 21 probative. And just as the defense did not want to have to be 22 jumping up every minute in the middle of the trial in front of 23 the jury objecting to things, making it seem as if they were 24 trying to prevent the full story from coming out, we don't want 25 to be in that same position. We would like the same

1 opportunity they had to brief these things ahead of time to the 2 Court so that the appropriate rulings can be made in advance.

3 So we need the earliest possible notice of who -- you 4 know, which witnesses they actually intend to call, some sense 5 of what they're going to say, and what the exhibits are going 6 to be with respect to the lay witnesses.

7 Another thing that we need is a list of mitigating 8 factors. The defense provided us with a list of seven 9 mitigating factors. One of them, this -- two of them we 00:37 10 believe are not appropriate mitigating factors although one of 11 them I think we're willing to yield on. The two that we 12 believe are inappropriate are the risk that the -- giving the 13 defendant the death penalty would create a greater risk of 14 inspiring future terrorists than giving him a sentence of life 15 imprisonment. Under the Supreme Court's law about what is and 16 is not a mitigating factor, we believe that is plainly not a 17 mitigating factor. Speculation about how the punishment might 18 affect third parties has nothing to do with the nature of the 19 crime or the character of the defendant.

00:38 20 The other one is his future dangerousness, or to put 21 it in the opposite way, how well the Bureau of Prisons will be 22 able to prevent him from being a danger in the future. Again, 23 the government has not noticed future dangerousness as an 24 aggravating factor, and even if we had, we would be limited to 25 evidence about the defendant's propensity for being a danger.

1 The defense is not proposing to put on evidence just purely of 2 the defendant's sort of peaceful nature, but evidence, again, 3 that has nothing to do with his -- the nature of the crime or 4 the character of the defendant but simply the capacity of the 5 Bureau of Prisons to keep any prisoner from additional future 6 violence.

7 This is the one I think we're willing to yield on 8 assuming we have an opportunity to rebut their evidence. But, 9 again, in that letter where they set out their seven mitigating 00:39 10 factors, they said that there might be subsidiary factual 11 mitigators that would also be added. And if experience is any 12 guide, that list could vastly expand by, you know, factors of 13 ten the number of mitigators they actually intend to propose to 14 the jury. And we need to see those so that we have an 15 opportunity to...

16 And there may be one or two motions in limine.
17 Another motion that we intend to file today is related to the 18 pending motion to suppress statements by the defendant. As the 19 Court will no doubt recall, the defendant filed a motion to 00:40 20 suppress statements that he made to law enforcement agents at 21 Beth Israel Hospital in the day or two after he was arrested.
22 The government opposed the motion but stipulated that it did 23 not need to use the statements in either its case-in-chief in 24 the guilt phase or the penalty phase, but would use them to 25 impeach the defendant or in rebuttal if he were to take the

1 stand and testify. The Court ruled that under those 2 circumstances any hearing on the voluntariness of the 3 statements, which would be a necessary finding for the 4 government to be able to use them, could be delayed to a future 5 point.

6 The point has come. Because if the defendant intends 7 to take the stand, he could do so at the last minute. It's 8 obviously up to him. And he might be the last witness the 9 defense would call, and there really wouldn't be much of an 00:41 10 opportunity to have this hearing at that point. It makes sense 11 to have it ahead of time.

12 But even if we delayed it to that point, I think that 13 the defense's motion to -- to suppress the statements on the 14 grounds that they were involuntary made reference to his 15 medical records and to the treatment that he received and the 16 condition that he was in at Beth Israel. The government's 17 opposition, likewise, cited to the medical records and to the 18 treatments he had received.

19 (Pause.)

00:41 20 MR. BRUCK: Bill, I think we can cut it short. The 21 defendant does not intend to testify at the penalty phase, so I 22 don't know that we need to belabor this point at this time.

23 MR. WEINREB: Under those circumstances, I think -- so 24 where I was going was that we were going to file a motion for 25 the opportunity to interview those doctors in preparation for

1 the hearing. If the defendant's not going to testify, 2 obviously that's not necessary, although we do have a motion to 3 exclude unsworn and uncross-examined allocution by the 4 defendant to the jury. That is something that we would propose 5 we have the right to impeach or rebut if the defendant intends 6 to offer it.

7 (Pause.)

8 MR. WEINREB: That's not happening, either?

9 MR. BRUCK: I think we've already responded in writing 00:42 10 that he does not intend to request allocution.

11 MR. WEINREB: Very well.

12 THE COURT: And those are decisions, I take it, that 13 you've discussed with him and he concurs with?

14 MS. CLARKE: Yes.

15 MR. BRUCK: Yes.

16 MR. WEINREB: The last thing I'd just offer to the 17 Court by way of useful information for scheduling has to do 18 with the parole status of the foreign witnesses that the 19 defense has noticed. I think Mr. Chakravarty's more up to date 00:42 20 on that.

21 MR. CHAKRAVARTY: To give an update, and I'm sure 22 Mr. Fick can elaborate from his perspective, but from what I've 23 gathered from Homeland Security, the applications for parole
24 for nine individuals have been effected, I think either 25 yesterday or the day before, by the defense in the sense of the

1 complete package has been submitted. HSI is promptly 2 processing those. As part of that process, they give the 3 application to the FBI for purposes of background. They are 4 the applicant for the parole. The FBI is the investigating 5 agency.

6 We anticipate -- this is not an assurance -- the U.S.
7 Attorney's Office is being told what's happening but we're not 8 actually making these executive decisions on it, that they're 9 going to be processed through in due course.

00:43 10 There are two exceptions that might create issues, and 11 one of them is an escort who is not a witness. And for 12 non-security reasons, but simply because of the significant 13 public benefit quality of the parole -- that's not to say that 14 they will be denied, but it's an issue that the agencies are 15 having to work through. I think that's something, frankly, 16 that can be overcome; however, the only representation as to 17 the need for that individual is based on the defense submitting 18 the application. It's not clear what the other reason is that 19 this person needs to attend and accompany or escort other 00:44 20 potential witnesses.

21 The other individual is one that was submitted I think 22 yesterday or on Monday, is somebody who I am told as a preview, 23 it's not a final decision, but there are significant concerns 24 for, and that parole was not likely to be granted even with the 25 security conditions which have been proposed by HSI. These are

1 mandatory security conditions with which they would say this 2 witness's parole is granted, and they're likely to be granted
3 for the balance of the applicants, then these security 4 provisions need to be complied with. Those conditions would be 5 insufficient to satisfy their concerns, and I think the FBI's 6 concerns as well, with regard to this one individual.

7 So I've learned that's likely this morning, and so I'm 8 relaying it now to your Honor as well as to the defense.

9 In terms of timing -- sorry. In terms of timing, what 00:45 10 it means is the other -- at least seven, maybe eight applicants 11 are expeditiously being processed through. There is a 12 logistical process of both getting the approvals within 13 Washington and back to Boston. That is a matter of days. And 14 then there's the transmission to the closest embassy to these 15 foreign witnesses, which I believe was noticed to be Moscow.
16 The State Department there would have to issue the parole.

17 Once that parole is issued, then that can be shown to 18 the airline, essentially, to come over here. There could -- it 19 could expedite matters by moving to, for example, the 00:45 20 Netherlands -- for traveling from the Netherlands, planning 21 travel from there because that's one less step because they 22 don't need the parole to enter the country. But assuming the 23 logistics are not practical unless you have parole in hand, 24 then it's a matter of days.

25 That could all, in a perfect scenario, happen as early

1 as next week if we have continued cooperation by the defense
2 and everything gets moved along quickly. It's more reasonable 3 and likely that the following week is more realistic, but even 4 then it's not assured. I think two weeks hence is the safest 5 to budget. And it sounds like, from what we've heard this 6 morning, that that would jibe with where we are.

7 MR. FICK: Just briefly, I think my first observation 8 is that I think the fact that we're learning a lot of this for 9 the first time from Mr. Chakravarty rather than from Homeland
00:46 10 Security illustrates the need for a firewall, and I think a 11 renewed motion in that regard is likely to be forthcoming.

12 The only -- we have been working as fast as we can to 13 get together all of the information we can to make this happen, 14 including a new requirement that was not present when other 15 colleagues had done this previously, which is that they wanted 16 an individual affidavit from each traveler that was completed 17 in person, so we had somebody within a day of receiving that 18 notice fly over to Russia, travel around to get those together.
19 That's now been done. I'm happy to hear that HSI thinks that 00:47 20 the packages, so to speak, are complete.

21 What has disturbed us is we got an email from them a 22 few days ago indicating that the conditions under which they 23 intend to hold these people when they are here include 24/7 24 monitoring by not only -- or not by Homeland Security but by 25 the FBI, which is the investigative agency, electronic

1 monitoring bracelets, et cetera, without any real showing as to 2 why that's remotely necessary or appropriate. That, we think, 3 is likely to have a very intimidating effect on the witnesses, 4 et cetera. And so we, I think in the next few days, will 5 probably be filing a motion to the Court to see if we can't at 6 least require some showing as to why such conditions are needed
7 and seek some relief from the Court in that regard.

8 As to the timing, I would, concur based on everything 9 I know from our collective prior experience, that the two weeks 00:48 10 would be a very optimistic view of when we might actually get 11 these people over here. And so at least in that regard I 12 concur.

13 As to anyone who is unable to get parole, and some 14 other folks who we know about who can't travel, we do 15 anticipate a small number of people we would like to bring in 16 by video appearance for this purpose. And so, you know, we'll 17 be in touch with the Court to arrange those logistics as 18 needed.

19 Oh, the final thing is with regard to the issue of the 00:48 20 escort, a large number of the witnesses are female members of 21 the maternal family. And the escort, so to speak, is the sort 22 of senior male brother of the defendant's mother; in other 23 words, his senior uncle on the maternal side as sort of the 24 male escort for those female members of the family. And so 25 that was the reason why his name was included.

1 My understanding is, for example, is in the Almohandis
2 case, the one that Ms. Conrad had a number of years ago before
3 Judge Saris, a male family member was similarly paroled, again,
4 as an escort in similar circumstances. Because culturally, a 5 large number of women from the family, it would not be 6 appropriate for them to travel without a male family member 7 accompanying them. So that's the reason for that, and I would 8 hope that could be accommodated.

9 MR. WEINREB: Your Honor, if there are going to be 00:49 10 proposed video interviews of witnesses, we'd like some kind of 11 notice of that and an opportunity to potentially object.

12 MR. FICK: We're not proposing video interviews; we're 13 proposing live video testimony. And we indicated in our letter 14 disclosing the foreign witnesses. But as to anyone we could 15 not get here physically, we would intend to put them on by live 16 video feed. So in other words, the examination and 17 cross-examination would be conducted from here; the witness 18 would be remote. There would be an interpreter presumably 19 here, and we could do it that way.

00:50 20 MR. WEINREB: But the witness wouldn't be under oath 21 or subject to the Court's jurisdiction. So again, we would 22 like an opportunity -- there may be some witnesses where we 23 don't have real concerns about potential perjury, for example, 24 and some witnesses where we have genuine concerns. And so that 25 would influence whether we potentially object or not.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. FICK: I would just note again that was done in 3 the Almohandis case. Again, there were some witnesses brought 4 here, some appeared by video. So it's not something that's 5 foreign to the Court even in a regular criminal trial where the 6 rules of evidence apply in full measure, which is not of course 7 the case in the penalty phase here.

8 THE COURT: The let me come back to the Bureau of 9 Prisons issue. Are you -- well, I heard your part of it. I 00:50 10 want to see what the government has to say in response to what 11 you said.

12 MR. WEINREB: So, your Honor, the defense gave the 13 government -- made a Touhy request for government testimony on 14 several matters. One had to do generally with conditions at 15 ADX and what the security there is like, but it also had to do 16 with the imposition of SAMs and what dictates -- what 17 constraints exist under SAMs and the degree to which they can 18 be renewed. It had to do with a number of things.

19 The response indicated that these -- that can't be 00:51 20 done with a single witness because the whole SAMs process is 21 not a BOP process; it's a DOJ process. It takes place through 22 other agencies. BOP accommodates SAMs, and to some degree 23 implements them, but they're not involved in obtaining them or 24 renewing them. So it wasn't possible to designate the single 25 witness who the defense requested.

1 Furthermore, the witness the defense requested is an 2 attorney, basically like an assistant or associate counsel for 3 BOP. BOP did not believe that was an appropriate witness.
4 Although that witness was allowed to testify in one case, I
5 think the BOP came to regret that decision, believing that it 6 shouldn't -- it was a bad precedent. It wasn't appropriate for 7 someone who's a legal counselor to BOP to be taking the witness 8 stand, encountering issues related to -- attorney-client type 9 issues. So that they wanted to designate a warden or an 00:52 10 assistant warden or somebody who is just a more appropriate 11 witness.

12 I don't think there's going to be any difficulty in 13 the defense speaking with these people in order to prep them, 14 so to speak, or find out what they have to say. I mean, 15 they're being designated with the understanding that they're 16 going to be witnesses for the defense. And it's not like 17 they're unwilling witnesses or anything like that. So I'm not 18 sure -- if there's something particular other than -- the Court 19 wants me to address, I'm happy to do it, but that's the general
00:53 20 background.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I mean, let's see how that 22 plays out. I mean, it may be that -- I mean, I assume from 23 your conversation with whoever you've talked to, you have a 24 sense of what it is you want to elicit.

25 MR. BRUCK: Yes.

1 THE COURT: And so the question is whether you're 2 able, through these people, to get what you want and --

3 MR. BRUCK: Yes. And the only -- I mean, the first 4 unknown right now is how long it's going to take. We started 5 this process on January the 5th and found out who they were 6 yesterday, so it creates a timing issue that we would much 7 rather not have had.

8 THE COURT: Okay. So I'm not sure that there's one 9 particular time we should set for motions but I want -- there's 00:54 10 at least one motion, I guess, that we need to perhaps resolve 11 before the government's case, and that is the defendant's 12 motion with respect to Dr. King. And I'm thinking we could 13 have a hearing on that on Monday. And if there's anything else
14 in that category -- I know that there are other motions, 15 perhaps, that we ought to get to soon, but that might be fairly 16 early in the government's presentation, and we should try to 17 get that resolved.

18 So are there other issues, motions that perhaps we 19 ought to add to a motion hearing on Monday?

00:54 20 MR. WEINREB: I might be able to pretermite that need 21 for Mr. Bruck to talk about at least one thing, which is the 22 question of victim-impact testimony related to non-decedents.

23 THE COURT: Oh, okay. You're right.

24 MR. WEINREB: So the government does not intend to put 25 on so-called long-term victim-impact testimony about

1 non-decedents. And by that we mean, we don't intend to put on 2 evidence about the economic impact on the lives of people who 3 were simply wounded, for example, and who are not -- when I say
4 "decedents," of course I'm including the surviving family
5 members of the decedents. With respect to them, I don't think 6 there's any claim that we can't put on testimony about 7 long-term economic impact, emotional impact, psychological, 8 pretty much every kind of impact.

9 With respect to people who were simply injured in the 00:55 10 bombing, we intend to put on only evidence related to the 11 substantial risk-of-death aggravator, which would be evidence 12 related to the injuries that they suffered at the marathon and 13 the continuing medical danger they are in as a result of those 14 injuries. And that in some cases involves medical conditions 15 and treatment that are occurring even today.

16 Just as an example, Marc Fucarile, who was one of the 17 people injured in the bombing, there's a piece of metal lodged 18 in his heart, a piece of shrapnel, which he's been informed by 19 his doctors could escape at any time, lodge in his lungs and 00:56 20 kill him. He's at grave risk of death every day because of 21 this bombing. We believe that is legitimate kind of testimony.
22 But we would not be asking him questions, for example, about 23 how difficult it's made his impending marriage or how, you 24 know, his economic -- his ability to do the job that he loved 25 has been affected or anything like that.

1 So it pretty much will be the same kind of testimony 2 that the Court heard in the guilt phase with respect to 3 non-decedents and their family members.

4 THE COURT: So I take that as -- more or less a 5 concession that -- what you say you don't intend to offer is 6 not properly admissible.

7 MR. WEINREB: Whether it's a concession as a legal 8 matter or not, it's a stipulation that we don't intend to do 9 it.

00:57 10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. BRUCK: We hope it will be that simple. We do 12 think with respect to the actual victim-impact testimony that 13 has been noticed, that is to say, the victim-impact testimony 14 concerning the decedents, that the only way for the Court to 15 ensure that that testimony is limited to what the Supreme Court 16 described in Payne as a brief glimpse of the life that the 17 defendant chose to extinguish, is to receive a detailed proffer 18 from the government in advance.

19 This is testimony that has the capacity to run away
00:57 20 with this trial, and it is very difficult to control once it 21 begins to unfold. There is no testimony more emotional, more 22 likely to produce a verdict based on passion in a way that 23 would violate the Federal Death Penalty Act and the Eighth 24 Amendment, than this type of testimony. And that is 25 particularly true, I don't have to tell the Court, in

1 connection with the Richard -- the Martin Richard counts.

2 The way of ensuring that this evidence stays cabined 3 within its constitutional limitations is to get a detailed 4 proffer, either a live proffer from the witnesses or a detailed 5 proffer from counsel, about what this testimony is going to 6 consist of so that the Court can decide in advance, rather than 7 when the jury is already listening, shocked and stunned and 8 weeping, to relatives -- the mother, the father -- of decedents 9 in this case, how to make sure that this case stays under the 00:59 10 Court's control and is not taken over by passion and emotion in 11 a way that the law does not allow. So we do ask that the Court 12 do that.

13 With respect to the grave risk-of-death witnesses, I 14 take it from Mr. Weinreb's testimony that that means that it 15 will -- the testimony will be limited to the type of example he 16 gave and not simply more victims who were struck by shrapnel 17 and had grievous wounds but without regard to the question of 18 grave risk of death. This, again, is the sort of testimony 19 that threatens to run away with the penalty phase and render 01:00 20 the jury emotionally ill-equipped to consider the far more 21 nuanced and -- well, I'll say nuanced evidence that the defense
22 presents in mitigation in this or any other case. So we think 23 it best that the Court get a full proffer of all of that 24 emotionally fraught testimony.

25 Likewise, we've just been notified yesterday that

1 we've received some new discovery showing MRIs or X-rays of BBs 2 in various victims, non-decedent victims, and extremely 3 graphic -- these are not color. These are X-rays, but it's a 4 little difficult to convey the -- how disturbing these images 5 are. And I don't understand why we received them so late in 6 the game. But as a general matter, I think we are dealing with 7 fire here and that the Court ought to review the government's 8 showing before the jury does.

9 Since we're only now getting things that we have never 01:01 10 seen before, it's a little difficult for us to do a 11 comprehensive motion in limine, and we certainly -- we have not 12 attempted to interview the victim-impact witnesses. And 13 perhaps if it's necessary for us to request to do that, we 14 will, but we don't want to. We simply want the Court to know 15 what's coming before it's on the stand.

16 MR. WEINREB: Your Honor, all of the exhibits that 17 were just produced are exhibits that we just got from the 18 victims themselves, so there was no delay in producing them.
19 We produced them as soon as we had them.

01:02 20 With respect to the question about grave risk of 21 death, I don't believe it's appropriate for the government to 22 be limited to some kind of testimony where there's some kind of 23 medical opinion testimony that this falls into a medical grave
24 risk-, or a legal grave risk-of-death category that a doctor 25 wouldn't be qualified to give anyway. I think it goes without

1 saying somebody who's a double amputee, somebody who has 2 shrapnel lodged in their body, somebody who was subject to 3 multiple surgeries going on into the future, all of those 4 things put people at a grave risk of death. Anybody who goes 5 in for surgery, anybody who's put under the knife, anybody 6 who's put under anesthesia is told there is a risk of death 7 from those procedures.

8 And, again, I don't think there's any need whatsoever 9 for any kind of proffer from those witnesses about what they're 01:02 10 going to say because we can proffer to the Court that it will 11 be analogous to what the Court heard and allowed during the 12 guilt phase. And it's even more appropriate here during the 13 penalty phase when guilt or innocence has already been decided 14 and the jury is more narrowly focused on these particular 15 aggravators where the evidence is, you know, really targeted.

16 And with respect to the decedents and their family 17 members, the testimony referring to that, I'm going to defer to 18 Mr. Mellin who has done this many times.

19 MR. MELLIN: Your Honor, I think the Court can rely on 01:03 20 counsel to do their job. I mean, the point that Mr. Bruck is 21 making is that we are not experienced, we don't know what we're 22 doing and this is just going to run amuck. That's not going to 23 happen in this case. It hasn't happened up to this point, and 24 it's not going to happen in the penalty phase.

25 We are experienced attorneys who understand the 1 issues. We understand what victim impact is, what it is not.

2 We understand that grave risk-of-death witnesses should not be 3 talking about victim impact. So all the concerns that 4 Mr. Bruck has raised, are certainly issues that we understand 5 we have an obligation to protect the record. We will do that 6 in this case.

7 We will ask certain decedents, family members and also 8 friends, to talk about what the impact has been on their life 9 from the fact that either Officer Sean Collier is dead or to 01:04 10 ask Denise Richard or Bill Richard about the impact of Martin's 11 death on their family, things along those lines, which are 12 totally appropriate.

13 And contrary to what Mr. Bruck just said that Payne
14 stands for the position that victim impact is very limited, I 15 don't believe that's correct. I think it will be limited in 16 this case, but is not incredibly limited. These witnesses are 17 allowed to get up and talk about the impact on their lives. We 18 will do our best and we will do our job to make sure we don't 19 run afoul of any precedent that is out there about what can and 01:04 20 cannot be said.

21 In addition, we don't want to leave an impression with 22 this jury that we are trying to elicit something that we should 23 not with your Honor. So that will not happen. There's no need 24 to have any type of voir dire outside the presence of the jury 25 as to what each of these witnesses have said up to this point.

1 The grave risk-of-death witnesses will be similar to 2 what Jessica Kensky or Rebekah Gregory or the other witnesses 3 testified previously about. And as the Court knows from the 4 instructions the Court gave, there is a very clear description 5 of what serious bodily injury is in this case, and we will 6 stick to what that description is.

7 MR. BRUCK: One matter briefly, if I could respond to, 8 with respect to the grave risk of death, the starting point 9 must always be the statute and the notice that has been 01:05 10 provided. The statutory aggravating factor is intentional 11 engagement in acts of violence knowing that the acts created a 12 grave risk of death to a person. And the notice proceeds that 13 "The defendant intentionally and specifically engaged in acts 14 of violence knowing that the acts created a grave risk of death 15 to a person or persons other than one of the participants in 16 the offense such that the participation in the acts constituted 17 a reckless disregard for human life and that" -- and then the 18 four decedents are named as the people who died as a result of 19 the act.

01:06 20 The focus of this aggravator is not on the wounds; it 21 is on the intention of the defendant. So the fact that he 22 exploded a bomb which had this capacity and there were other 23 people around, and that he knew that other people were in the 24 area, is relevant. It is not a way to sneak in through the 25 back door evidence of the nature of the injuries that for

1 non-decedents that have not been noticed either as a statutory 2 or non-statutory matter. And I think that's really what the 3 government is attempting to do.

4 The testimony about Mr. Fucarile and the piece of 5 metal in his heart, this is the first time that I heard 6 that -- that we have been noticed that they intend to develop 7 this testimony. And I may have spoken too quickly by saying 8 that that is -- if so limited, might come within this 9 aggravator because it really doesn't.

01:07 10 The aggravator concerns the mental state of the 11 defendant, not the -- all of the sequelae of the crime. The 12 point is: Did he know that this could have happened? If so, 13 he is more culpable. That's what they're limited to. And if 14 it were possible to draft a non-statutory aggravating factor 15 that went further, they didn't do it, and so it's too late to 16 put it in now.

17 MR. MELLIN: Your Honor, that's just completely 18 incorrect. Mr. Bruck is reading one portion of that grave 19 risk-of-death factor which talks about the defendant knowingly 01:07 20 doing something, but then the government then has to go on and 21 show that there was a grave risk of death to others. In fact, 22 we'll submit at some point our jury instructions which says,
23 "To establish the existence of this factor," meaning the grave 24 risk factor, "the government must prove that the defendant 25 knowingly created a grave risk of death to one or more persons

1 in addition to the victims of the offenses in committing the 2 offense. 'Persons in addition to the victims' include innocent
3 bystanders in the zone of danger created by the defendant's 4 acts," but it doesn't include other participants. "'Grave risk 5 of death' means a significant and considerable possibility that 6 another person might be killed."

7 So, yes, we have to show that the defendant knowingly 8 did that. We also have to show that there is this grave risk 9 of death to these other people. That is what we intend to do.

01:08 10 THE COURT: Okay. Let me shift to another topic, and 11 that is the opening instructions to the jury. Leonard Sand has 12 an extended version which I've reviewed very quickly, and I 13 just wanted to inquire of you -- more than very quickly -- 14 wanted to see if you agreed with my impression that it was a 15 good instruction.

16 Does anybody have a problem if I follow that model?

17 MR. WEINREB: The government agrees. We'd only note 18 that this appears to have been written before the decision 19 requiring that the jury find that the defendant be over 18 01:09 20 years of age, so that would have to be added. And there are 21 two spots where it's logical to add it in which we've marked 22 and we're happy to point out to the Court.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MR. BRUCK: I think the Federal Death Penalty Act has 25 always required that the defendant be over the age of 18, even

1 before it was required constitutionally, so I don't know -- I 2 think Judge Sand probably left that out because it may not have 3 been necessary.

4 But to answer the Court's question, we agree that 5 those instructions are appropriate.

6 THE COURT: Okay. All right.

7 MR. BRUCK: Before we move off the motions -- I don't 8 want to prolong that too long and maybe this gets into 9 scheduling -- but we do have another pending motion, which is a 01:10 10 motion for mistrial.

11 THE COURT: Right.

12 MR. BRUCK: And in the alternative, for continuance.
13 Maybe that folds into --

14 THE COURT: Right. So in terms of a motion hearing, I 15 was suggesting Monday. I was thinking of the Dr. King motion, 16 the mistrial motion by the defense, and perhaps the 17 government's omnibus motion in limine. I think those are the 18 issues that probably most urgently need resolution. We could 19 have a hearing on Monday morning for those matters.

01:10 20 So let's talk about scheduling. I know it's part of 21 the mistrial motion but without -- whatever we say, we can 22 revisit, I guess. But as I said yesterday to the jury, I was 23 focusing on next week. My -- I don't want to rush things. I
24 want things to be done right. On the other hand, there's a 25 risk in leaving an active jury idle, and those things play

1 against each other which is why I focused on next week, but 2 not -- I think Monday is out of the question. Sometime later 3 in the week, perhaps.

4 So I guess subject to revision if I agree with the 5 defense after the motion hearing.

6 MR. WEINREB: So, your Honor, in light of that, the 7 concerns the Court has just articulated, as well as our 8 prediction about when some of these parole issues may be 9 resolved and so forth, we propose resuming the trial on 01:12 10 Thursday of next week with the expectation that the jury would 11 also sit Friday, having had Monday off.

12 THE COURT: Yes, that was always the expectation.

13 MR. WEINREB: Right. So we think that makes the most 14 sense, gives, you know, a sufficient cushion, I think, to get a 15 number of these issues resolved, but doesn't leave the jury 16 idle longer than necessary.

17 THE COURT: Well, it may be unfair to ask you to 18 respond since you want it even longer than that.

19 MR. BRUCK: We need a break. Yes. We could -- it's 01:12 20 conceivable that the issues concerning the government's case 21 could be resolved soon enough to be able to resume 22 Monday -- Thursday, and perhaps the government would even 23 finish its case, based on Mr. Weinreb's representation, but 24 it -- we don't -- we are not going to be ready to proceed the 25 following Monday. I guess it would be -- it would be Marathon

1 Monday, the following Tuesday.

2 And we also think it -- you know, worth reflecting on 3 the fact that this is the anniversary of the bombing, the 4 marathon. The jury is not sequestered. They're going to be 5 home, whether they're in court or whether they're in work. And 6 we think -- you know, with all of the unresolved issues, with 7 the international travel, with our Bureau of Prisons, with so 8 many legal issues as yet unresolved having to do with the 9 government's attempt to limit, or wish to limit our case, if 01:13 10 the government finished and we were given a week to catch our 11 breath and get organized and get our witnesses here from 12 overseas, get this Bureau of Prisons issue resolved, if we can, 13 or else apply for relief to the Court, that seems like the 14 minimum that we're going to need.

15 I'd also point out -- and Ms. Conrad has reminded me, 16 Wednesday is the 15th, the anniversary -- second anniversary of 17 the marathon bombing, is the first ever One Boston Day, which I 18 gather will be a continuing civic event in this community. The 19 coverage of that will be running on Thursday. And the jury has 01:14 20 not had really specific notice that they would be sitting on 21 Thursday except -- on Fridays unless -- I think the Court said
22 if Monday is a holiday, which this Monday was not. So jurors 23 may have already made plans.

24 THE COURT: I don't think so. I mean, I think we 25 talked about it back in January with them, that there were two

1 Monday holiday weeks, and they were in February and April. You 2 know, it's not a federal holiday but --

3 MS. CONRAD: That's the following Friday, your Honor.
4 That's the problem. Next Friday --

5 THE COURT: Oh, I see.

6 MS. CONRAD: Monday is the 13th. It's --

7 THE COURT: You're right. I'm sorry.

8 MS. CONRAD: That's what I was talking about.

9 THE COURT: I got the weeks mixed. But -- well, okay.
01:15 10 Right. I see what you're saying. Okay.

11 MR. BRUCK: So without notice to the jury, all of 12 which makes us think to get through this time and have the 13 government start their case after Marathon Monday and let us 14 start on April 27th. We are ahead of schedule in this case in 15 terms of the length of time that you told the jury it was going 16 to take and the length of time it has taken.

17 If the jury is not protecting themselves from 18 publicity, we're in a fix no matter how you slice it, and 19 whether there's a week off or not. The Court is trusting them, 01:15 20 the system is trusting them. We've seen cases in which -- I 21 know of one not too long ago where the judge took a six-week
22 break between the guilt phase and the -- also in a case 23 involving international issues.

24 So there's plenty of precedent for much longer breaks 25 than what we're asking for. And we think that if we are

1 required to go straight through, we're going to be coming to 2 you with every sort of problem to be resolved that may not have 3 arisen had we just had time to catch our breath.

4 MS. CONRAD: May I just add one thing? Sorry.
5 Ms. Clarke is rolling her eyes at me.

6 If we were to start on Thursday, it's not just the 7 government starting its evidence on Thursday, the day after One 8 Boston Day, its opening statements for the penalty phase which 9 are going to be highly emotional in an already charged 01:16 10 atmosphere, it seems to me to sit for one day, just that one 11 day that week, seems a little unnecessary.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. WEINREB: So we would agree that it wouldn't 14 be -- it doesn't make a lot of sense to sit for just one day.
15 My personal sense of the jury is that they're very committed to 16 this case and that if they were told they had to sit on Friday, 17 it wouldn't be a problem for them. The Court is probably in a 18 better position to know.

19 We're very much not in favor of a schedule that would 01:17 20 involve the government putting on its case and then breaking 21 for a week before the defense puts on its case. What we would 22 say, though, is that we're fairly confident that if we begin on 23 Thursday, especially given that there will be opening 24 statements and some preliminary instructions from the Court, 25 that the government's case will not conclude until the

1 following Tuesday, since Monday's a holiday. We wouldn't 2 object --

3 THE COURT: That's assuming Friday as well.

4 MR. WEINREB: That's assuming -- right. Thursday, 5 Friday, we would likely -- we're just estimating we would 6 conclude sometime Tuesday morning. We wouldn't object to then 7 starting again on Wednesday for -- with the defense. That 8 would be essentially two weeks from the conclusion of the guilt 9 phase for the defense to get started with its case.

01:18 10 We will expeditiously brief everything that we have 11 raised today that needs to be raised so that there's at least, 12 you know, a reasonable opportunity -- a week's time, let's say, 13 for the defense to respond in writing to any of the 14 government's motions in limine that haven't yet been submitted.
15 There will be time for the Court to decide them, for the 16 parties to adjust with respect to their opening statements and 17 their lineups.

18 But that is assuming that we get adequate notice from 19 the defense as to what their witnesses are going to say and 01:18 20 what their exhibits are going to be. We can't guarantee a 21 week's notice if we don't get those things for a week, let's 22 say. But again, you know, as we have, I think, shown in the 23 past, we can brief things quickly if we need to, and we will do 24 so, but we think that the potential harm to the case of having 25 the jury simply be out there for a lengthy period of time

1 outweighs some of the other concerns that we've heard in that 2 the schedule can always be adjusted in small ways if needed to 3 accommodate concerns that arise. We could end early on a 4 particular day, we could take a day off. All of that is 5 better, we think, than having a very protracted period between 6 now and the start of the penalty phase.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. BRUCK: The last thing I just want to point out, 9 underscore something Mr. Weinreb said, which is that this is 01:19 10 our -- this is where we carry the evidentiary burden. The 11 government has very little left to go. I don't doubt that they 12 have plenty of time to be filing -- writing and filing motions 13 and responding to legal issues. We will do our best, but we 14 are stretched very thin, and it's -- we would not be asking for 15 this very short break if we didn't need it.

16 THE COURT: Okay. I'll mull it over and try to sketch 17 out some scheduling ideas.

18 So for Monday, a motion hearing at ten. And I suggest 19 those three motions. If later you think that should be added 01:20 20 to, later today, notify us if you think there's something else 21 that should be put on that.

22 MR. WEINREB: The Waltham triple homicide and other 23 bad acts motion has been briefed and is pending.

24 MR. BRUCK: We have not briefed it so we need to 25 respond to that. And we'll do that as quickly as we can.

1 THE COURT: Can you do that so we could put it on the 2 agenda for Monday?

3 MR. BRUCK: Yes.

4 THE COURT: It is sort of an important motion in terms
5 of everybody's planning, I guess. So either way that it comes 6 out, it may alter preparations.

7 MR. BRUCK: Yes. I guess we'll get something in over 8 the weekend to...

9 (Counsel confer off the record.)

01:21 10 MR. BRUCK: Saturday?

11 THE COURT: Fine. Fine.

12 MR. BRUCK: And the last thing I -- before I sit 13 down -- should have emphasized is in addition to all the 14 practical problems we face in having our case ready to go in a 15 consistent flow, we really are facing something that we have 16 worried about since discussion of continuance back last fall 17 and it has come to pass, and that is this confluence of the 18 anniversary and Marathon Monday right at the emotional climax 19 of this case. To the extent that we can let that go and then, 01:22 20 you know, once the whole community exhales and ordinary life 21 resumes, that's the time to try this case, and not in the 22 middle of all of that.

23 MR. WEINREB: Your Honor, I'd only say that that 24 argument is premised on the assumption that the jury is being 25 affected by what's happening in the news and what's happening

1 in the community. We've seen absolutely no evidence of that.
2 The jurors have consistently assured the Court that they are 3 studiously avoiding any kind of discussion about the case, 4 contact related to the case or information about the case. And 5 there's no reason to doubt their honesty or their sincerity.

6 And as the Court has noted on more than one occasion, 7 the jury has been so immersed in the facts of this case that 8 one can trust based not only on their assurances but just on, 9 you know, knowledge of human nature that that has very likely 01:23 10 displaced in importance any epiphenomenal kind of information 11 that may come their way. And in some respects, having them in 12 the courtroom focused on the evidence that's being put in front 13 of them instead of sitting idly at home, potentially, is a 14 better way of assuring that they remain focused on what's 15 happening in the courtroom and not what's happening outside of 16 it.

17 MR. BRUCK: Very briefly. To be clear, we are not so 18 concerned that the jury will receive new information about the 19 case. What is happening in the community, the marathon, the 01:23 20 Boston One Day, the anniversary, these are not things that the 21 Court has instructed the jury, or could very well instruct the 22 jury to avoid. You have told them to avoid information about 23 the case. We are concerned about the overarching community 24 experience. And, you know, that's a very different matter.
25 That is not something that the jury has been or indeed really

1 could be instructed.

2 It's almost like saying, "For the next three months 3 don't be a citizen of this community because it might affect 4 the trial." There's no such instruction. You haven't done it, 5 you couldn't. This is just not the time to be trying this 6 case.

7 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Thank you very much.

8 THE CLERK: All rise for the Court.

9 (The Court exits the courtroom at 11:01 a.m.)

01:24 10 THE CLERK: Court will be in recess.

11 (The proceedings adjourned at 11:01 a.m.)
